The HLMS documentation is arranged in several separate files while may be opened from this main screen. When a new file is opened, you can go back to the title screen (HLMS.PDF) by selecting the  icon on the contents page of each section.

The HLMS documentation has been optimised for printing, and so the whole page may not be readable on the screen. Cursor keys may be used to navigate the pages. Some important cursor keys are as follows:

Move to next page

Move Visible page DOWN

Move to Previous page

Move Visible page Up

Go to First (Contents) Page

The files have been indexed for fast searching of key words across ALL documents. This feature is available with the Search plug-in available in version 3 of the PDF reader software. To search for a word or key words across all documents, simply type:

If this feature is not enabled on your software, you can use the standard Find Feature on each section by typing:

Additional help about the PDF system may be found in the Help files.

This manual was written and compiled by Peter Grimshaw and Jean-Marie Barker with assistance from all of the HLMS users throughout the world.
